Weekly Words from The Rock

Question for the Week

How do we forgive? It is the million dollar question for so many people. There are past hurts that just seem too “big” to remove from one’s life. In the November 10, 2016 edition of The Catholic Spirit, Father Michael Van Sloun has written an article entitled “Forgive Offenses.” I share it with you today.

“To forgive offenses is one of the seven spiritual works of mercy. It is also variously known as to “forgive all injuries” and to “forgive sins.”

There are at least three major spiritual benefits: the one who forgives is liberated from bitterness and resentment, the one who is forgiven receives mercy and a new beginning, and the community experiences conflict resolution and the restoration of harmony.

Jesus gave the great commandment: Love God and love your neighbor. Because of our flawed human nature and our propensity to sin, everyone who offends against love and relationships is harmed or broken. The way to return to love, mend relationships and heal offenses is to forgive. Forgiveness is the flip side of the love coin.

Jesus is the best example of forgiveness. As Jesus hung in crucifixion, he forgave those who falsely testified against him, wrongly condemned him and cruelly tortured him when he prayed, “Father, forgive them” (Luke 23:34). If God is love, if nothing is outside of God’s mercy, and if Jesus is the son of God, then it was a spiritual imperative for Jesus to forgive those who had offended him. To do otherwise would have been to carry anger and resentment with him to the grave which is no way to die, and it would have disproved his divinity. Jesus did what God does. He was “gracious and merciful... abounding in steadfast love and relenting in punishment” (Joel 2:13).

Jesus demonstrated forgiveness again after his Resurrection. His disciples offended him when they abandoned him at the time of his arrest, and Peter further offended him with his denials. Jesus had every reason to be hurt and angry. Yet, when Jesus appeared to them on Easter Sunday night, his first words to them were, “Peace be with you” (Luke 24:36), which amounts to “I forgive you.”

Jesus knew the importance of forgiveness and stressed it in his teaching. He taught that we should forgive those who trespass against us (see Matthew 6:12; Luke 11:4). Once Peter asked Jesus, “Lord, if my brother sins against me, how often must I forgive him?” And almost congratulating himself, Peter added, “As many as seven times?” (Matthew 18:21). Jesus, unimpressed, replied, “Not seven times but 77 times” (Matthew 18:22), a symbolic number for as many times as necessary because forgiveness is a life-long process.

Jesus was well aware that those who have been offended can be consumed with anger, bitterness and resentment. It is natural to harbor a grudge and want to strike back, take revenge, retaliate, punish, or get even. As the saying goes, “Hurt people hurt people.” It perpetuates a cycle of violence. It can be all-consuming and rob people of their happiness. It is no way to live. It does an immense amount of good to let go of our hurts and forgive those who have offended us. It gives release and freedom, and peace and joy.

Sometimes forgiveness seems unattainable, so far beyond us that it requires a superhuman effort. Whenever we face what appears to be an insurmountable spiritual challenge, it is time to turn to God in prayer and ask for help. God will provide divine assistance, as the psalmist explained long ago: “The Lord answered me when I called in my distress” (Psalm 120:1).”

Biblical Terminology

We continue our work of defining words and names from the pages of the Bible. My source for this is Harper’s Bible Dictionary, Harper & Row Publishers, Copyright 1985.

Adultery – illicit sexual relations with someone other than one’s marriage partner. In the Old Testament adultery had a precise and limited definition: sexual relations between a married (or betrothed) woman and any man other than her husband. Adultery, therefore, was committed only against a husband, never against a wife. It was considered a most grievous transgression, to be punished by death of both parties (Deuteronomy 22:22-24). There is no actual evidence that this punishment was ever carried out, but it may have been in certain instances, and the threat of execution still existed in the first century. The law was probably intended to ensure that any child born to the wife was really the husband’s child, since it was considered crucial for the husband to have offspring, so that the family name could be perpetuated. In the New Testament period, it appears that the definition of adultery was extended in its scope. For example, the teaching of Jesus was understood to mean that a husband could now be held responsible for committing adultery against his wife. Adultery was sometimes used as a symbol of the unfaithfulness of the people toward God.

Agape – the principal Greek word used for “love” in the New Testament. Of the three words for love in the Hellenistic world, it was the least common. The other two words were eros, which meant sexual love, and philos, which meant friendship, although their meanings could vary according to the context in which they appeared. Agape, because it was used so seldom and was so unspecific in meaning, could be used in the New Testament to designate the unmerited love God shows to humankind in sending his son as suffering redeemer. When used of human love, it means selfless and self-giving love.

Alms – gifts to the needy. Almsgiving is a common practice in the Bible that recognizes God’s blessings and maintains proper community relations. In the Old Testament care for the poor is recommended as just behavior, required by the tithe for the poor every three years (Deuteronomy 14:28-29) and the leaving of fallen produce at harvest for the poor (Deuteronomy 24:19-22). The New Testament also recommends the traditional Jewish practice of almsgiving (Matthew 6:1-4), calling it by a word that comes from the Greek word for “mercy.” The early Christian community cared for its poor (Acts 6; 2 Corinthians 8-9) and the parable of the sheep and the goats (Matthew 25:31-46) makes final judgment depend on care given to the needy.

Holy Humor

God’s blessings Fr. Peter Schuster

God asks Solomon, "Ask something of me and I will give it to you." If God asked you this same request, how would you respond? Today we hear Solomon answering God with a desire for an "understanding heart to judge your people and to distinguish right from wrong." God smiled and Solomon grew in wisdom that was un-paralleled in human history.

I believe that this question is timeless; we would all benefit from revisiting our reply at all stages of our lives. God cares about our hopes and dreams. Solomon teaches me to take God's request seriously, to recognize the truth about myself, acknowledge my responsibilities, and ask in all humility for my deepest desire. As I stand on the brink of traveling down the road of retirement, what am I longing for from God? What are you longing for at this time in your life? Let us not be afraid to ask.

This summer there has been many opportunities to immerse ourselves in music. Whether you are attending: Down by the Riverside, Thursdays on First, World Music Series, Summer at the Civic, dining at restaurants, or traveling to concerts throughout Minnesota, there is wonderful music to be heard and enjoyed. We hope you will make the "Night with Paul Todd Concert" at Resurrection one of your must-do summer events. Paul Todd and his son will be performing a Christian Music Concert on Friday, August 4 at 7 p.m.

Paul plays six keyboards simultaneously, singing original, classical, popular and Broadway selections. What is unusual about this event is that the money raised will be used to help children on the Autism Spectrum receive faith formation through the proven ABA method. The goal is to help these children develop a closer relationship with God. How wonderful is that! Thank you to Judy and Larry Wagner who have worked hard with Georges to make this great event happen. This event is open to all; please invite a friend or family member to join you. Pick up your tickets in the church office or come that night. A free will offering will be taken.

Speaking of music, we will be welcoming our new Music and Choral Director, Joy Viceroy, very soon. Her first day at the office will be Tuesday, August 1st. Please take a moment to greet her and pray for her as she gets settled in her Rochester apartment, begins to learn your names, and discovers all of the great musical gifts and talents that are present at Resurrection.

Thank you to all of the parishioners who submitted names for Leadership Ministry open positions. All parishioners that were nominated will be receiving an invitation from Fr. Schuster to attend the Leadership Discernment Day on Wednesday, August 9 at 6 p.m. Please lift these nominees in prayer as they consider their involvement in taking on an important leadership role in the life of the parish.

Enjoy God's embrace.

Parish News

Story in the Park, Monday, July 31st. Bring the family to hear the story "Wolves & Beast Day." Come to the Zenk Hall at 6:30 pm and weather permitting, we will walk to "our park." Otherwise, we will be in Room C.

Food for Friends: It's time to start thinking "Back to School" for our Food for Friends children. The shopping ads are out and there are lots of school supplies needed! For a 2nd year our ministry will be helping with filling backpacks with school supplies. There are backpacks to pick up at the church in a black tub near the office. Inside each backpack is a school supply list for each grade level at Ben Franklin. Pick a grade of your choice, shop, and return the filled backpack to church. There is also a tag with the word "Grade" on it. Please write the grade level that you have purchased for on this tag. If you cannot complete a full grade level supply list, purchasing supplies of your choice will be greatly appreciated. Copies of the school supplies are by the Food for Friends display. The need is great. 70 backpacks were filled last year and all backpacks were claimed.

Society of St. Vincent de Paul has a need for gently used items in good working order. Items we are seeking include (but are not limited to), silverware, kitchen utensils, toasters, dishes, cookware, handheld mixers, mattresses and box springs, bed frames, pillows, mattress pads, couches, chairs, lamps, kitchen tables and chairs, shower curtains and entry rugs. Many of these items are small, but so very necessary. The smaller items (silverware, kitchen utensils, toasters, dishes, cookware, handheld mixers, pillows, mattress pads, shower curtains, entry rugs) can be placed by the cart for the SVdP food donations in the hallway. We have limited space available to house larger items, so if you have donations and can hold onto them for any length of time, please send an email to Mary Kessler mfkessler@hotmail.com) with a description of the item (s), how long you can hold onto them, contact name, phone number and email. These items will be added to the donations list used by most of the SVdP Conferences. A Vincentian will contact you as soon as we have a family in need of your item. Thank you for your support of our friends in need.

Liturgy Notes from Joann

Reflections from Cincinnati

Two weeks ago I spent the week in Cincinnati, Ohio at the Convention of the National Association of Pastoral Musicians. Members in the Association include musicians, cantors, choir members, bell ringers, children, youth, adults, priests, religious, organists, pianists, guitarists, percussionists, wind instruments, string instruments, liturgists, writers, artists, composers, editors, publishers and directors – any and all people who aspire to use their voices and talents to praise GOD in the common prayer of the Church – the liturgy.

The theme of the convention this year was “Formed as One: Union of Voices, Unity of Heart”. Dr. Tim O’Malley, the director of the Notre Dame Center for Liturgy, presented the first plenum address. Mistrust, unbelief and apathy are prevalent in our Church today – also present is a deep longing for traditions. In our “throw-away society,” traditions provide a sense of security and identity. These traditions must be accompanied with real catechesis about the presence of GOD, who loves us and want us to live in love. Our faith is built on the strong foundation of love. We gather together, week after week, not for ourselves, but to give thanks to GOD who saves us through love. All our work must be grounded in evangelization – sharing the Good News of GOD’S great love. He ended his talk by reminding us that all of life is transfigured in love.

The second plenum address was given by Kelly Adamson, a Benedictine Oblate who serves as the assistant director of campus ministry at the University of Dayton. She affirmed that praying and singing together unifies the Body of Christ and that there is great value in praying and singing together outside the celebration of the Eucharist. The Liturgy of the Hours (Morning Prayer, Evening Prayer, Night Prayer) and devotions (i.e., The Rosary, Benediction, Stations of the Cross) provide opportunities for the community to pray and sing together through the Church’s rich tradition of prayer.

My favorite plenum address was given by Tony Alonso, a composer and theologian from Austin, Minnesota whose work responds to the diverse needs of the contemporary Church. He is currently a doctoral candidate in religion at Emory University. He reminded us that music is physical (we use our senses to experience it) and thus has a profound influence in our lives. It can be deeply emotional and has the potential to cause great unity and great division. Our individual preferences and tastes were formed even before we were born. These preferences should lead to conversation - not division. There is no “one size” that fits all. We all have our biases, but in our common prayer we need to be open to the many languages, styles and tastes that make up who we are - the Body of Christ.

Psalm Refrain for August 6 – The Transfiguration of the Lord (Psalm 97:1,9)

The Lord is king, the Most High over all the earth.
