Our Sunday Visitor

In the August 27-September 2, 2017 (pages 9-12) edition of Our Sunday Visitor, the pages cover some common questions asked of or by Catholics. This last week, I would like to look at the final question and an answer which can be given.

Question: Why can't women be priests?

Answer: There isn't enough space here to do a full examination of this important issue, but to best understand the Church's teaching on this issue, one must consider both Tradition and the iconic nature of the priesthood.

The years following the Second Vatican Council and the sexual revolution in the mid- to late-20th century presented a period of confusion regarding what seemed to be an open question of exploring the possibility of ordaining women to the priesthood. To put this matter to rest, the Catholic Church in 1976 reiterated that the priesthood should be reserved for men alone when the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, at the direction of Pope Blessed Paul VI, issued the declaration Inter Insigniores.

This primarily is because of Christ's attitude regarding ordained ministry, found in both his example and that of Christian tradition. Although women were actively involved in the life of Christ during his ministry, Jesus did not appoint women to the apostolic office. "Jesus Christ did not call any women to be part of the Twelve" (No. 2). This is not to say that Jesus was discriminatory toward women, however. As Inter Insigniores points out, "His attitude toward women was quite different from that of his milieu, and he deliberately and courageously broke with it" (No. 2).

Jesus' break with cultural treatment of women is seen in multiple places throughout the gospels. It is also seen clearly in the Easter story, in which women were "the first to have the privilege of seeing the Risen Lord," yet were not "the official witnesses to the Resurrection" (Inter Insigniores, No. 6). Following this example, the Church carries on Christ's will in regard to sacramental orders. "By calling only men to the priestly Order ... the Church intends to remain faithful to the type of ordained ministry willed by the Lord Jesus Christ and carefully maintained by the Apostles" (No. 1).

This teaching was reiterated by Pope St. John Paul II in his 1994 apostolic letter Ordinatio Sacerdotalis, in which he sought to dispel any lingering doubts regarding the Catholic Church's teaching on women's ordination. And so, with great solemnity, he provided unambiguous teaching on the issue: "Wherefore, in order that all doubt may be removed regarding a matter of great importance, a matter which pertains to the Church's divine constitution itself, in virtue of my ministry of confirming the brethren (see Luke 22:32) I declare that the Church has no authority whatsoever to confer priestly ordination on women and that this judgment is to be definitively held by all the Church's faithful." (No. 4).

It is important to note that this statement by St. John Paul II fulfills the conditions for an infallible statement, as taught by the First Vatican Council, and clearly is phrased in such a manner. By virtue of his ministry as universal shepherd and teacher ex cathedra (with the full authority of office), the pope has the power to define something concerning faith and morals, which are to be held by the universal Church, as "infallible."

It's important to note that all of this, though, is a matter of function, not a question of dignity and holiness. In God's designs, masculinity and femininity both matter.

In this vein, the Church's tradition appropriately and concisely expresses a nuptial imagery of the Church: as men fittingly represent Christ, women suitably represent the Church. The Second Vatican Council reiterated the importance of the participation of women in the life of the Church – a topic covered more in-depth in a variety of Pope St. John Paul II's writings that underscored the dignity and vocation of women.

That dignity and vocation is seen in the countless women of every time and place who – in fidelity to the Gospel – have attained the heights of holiness.

They have their own dialect only to speak, but without script. The Bishop, along with his priests, religious and a team of laity leaders are actively involved first to learn their language and catechize them. Come and listen as he shares his love of Christ and the mission work, along with his experiences as a missionary. A second collection will be taken for the work of evangelization for the mission in the diocese of Warangal and please be generous in supporting the mission all over the world.

Catechesis and Enrollment in the Brown Scapular

The Brown Scapular is a sign of consecration to Our Lady and her way of life – that is, a life lived in allegiance to Jesus Christ. In wearing the brown scapular, we enter into a covenant of love and trust with Mary as our Mother, our Sister, and our Patroness. It stands for a commitment to follow Jesus like Mary, the perfect model of discipleship. It is a sign of Mary's protection and of belonging to the family of Carmel. Enrollment in the Brown Scapular is available to any baptized Catholic following catechesis on the spirituality of Carmel, the symbolism of the scapular, and the obligations expected of those who enter the scapular confraternity.

The Saint Joseph Lay Carmelite Community is hosting a city-wide catechesis and enrollment in the Brown Scapular on July 16th, from 6:30-7:30 pm at Saint James Coffee.

All are invited! Light refreshments will be provided. Members of the Lay Carmelite Community will be present afterwards to meet with those potentially interested in joining the community. Please contact Terese Horlocker for questions (phone: 507.288.9550 or email: horlocker.terese@mayo.edu).

Modern Media (under current topics) Originally written for teenagers, this study on modern media has been modified and revamped to start a discussion for adults about our increasingly media-savvy world.

Smartphones, social networks, apps, data plans, texting, Wi-Fi, tablets, headphones... these things are not necessarily good or bad, but they are incredibly powerful. Using modern media can either hinder our ability to discern God's voice in the silence of the heart, or it can be a tool for learning and evangelization. This study looks at modern media from a Christian perspective, dives into the unprecedented influence it has on our lives, and gives us some practical tools to live vibrant Christian lives in a media-saturated culture..

Music and Choral Director &
Coordinator of Liturgy
choirdirector@rescathroch.org.

As the summer days continue to fly by, so do our Sundays in Ordinary Time. But what IS Ordinary Time, exactly? The Liturgy Committee has been working with a book called, Great is the Mystery: Encountering the Formational Power of Liturgy over the last year. In it, we are offered a concise way of remembering what Ordinary Time really is: “Ordinary Time’ simply refers to the time that is counted, or ordered, around the celebration of Easter.”¹

Indeed, we are not to say that “ordinary” means “plain” or “typical” in this case. Instead, we are ordering the time in accordance with the lectionary. You’ll have already started to notice that the stories seem to correlate from week-to-week: In the Gospel of Mark, we’ve been picking up where we left off the week before.

A wonderful five-week series of readings will begin at the end of this month: the “Bread of Life” discourse from the Gospel of John. Over those five weeks, we will first hear the account of the five loaves and two fishes feeding the multitude. For those who are attending a weekly Mass during the summer, (whether here at Resurrection or elsewhere while you’re traveling,) have you noticed the stories picking up where they left off from? Do you like this? Does this make you ready to come back for more the next week?

Now, there’s nothing I can do about the lectionary cycle if you don’t like this continuity, but there is something I can do about the music. Would it be helpful to have a similar, or the same, song every week in order to help drive home the overarching message of these multi-week Gospels? Why or why not? I’d be very eager to hear all of your thoughts on this as I continue to plan the rest of the summer Masses! (And, for those who have already asked, we will be changing up our Mass Setting around mid-August, so you won’t have to sing Mass of Renewal until Thanksgiving!). I hope you all have a blessed week ahead. Please do not hesitate to reach out to me if you have any questions, comments, or concerns!

Hymnal Scavenger Hunt How’d you do with last week’s Hymnal Scavenger Hunt? It was Sing to the Mountains, found in the green hymnal at #580 and the red hymnal at #452. Here’s this week’s clue: This is our current Gathering Hymn (Prelude) before every Mass. It asks for the logos to come forth into our midst.
Hint: This song may be found in the green hymnal.
