Question: If someone is interested in becoming a priest, how does he go about it?

Answer: Discerning a vocation can happen in any number of ways. It might come as a surprise to the person called or to family or friends. Sometimes it is a gradual process, and other times it is as quick and bright as lightning. Regardless of how it starts, a vocation to the priesthood or religious life requires a process of discerning, testing, and preparing. The best place to begin would be with lots of prayer, receiving the sacraments, and attending daily Mass whenever possible. Then talk to your pastor or a priest you know and trust. Your diocese may have a vocation director who can provide you with guidance and information. The Serra Club is also a great resource for information and contacts to help you discern if indeed God is calling you.

Remember that many young Catholic men have considered the priesthood. Some are ordained and others realize this is not their calling. However, we are all called to be of service to others as we practice our faith. These are extraordinary times in which we live, and they require an extraordinary witness to faith and to God's presence in the world. Our work, our ministry as Catholics, is to be the body of Christ with and for others. The Church needs priests. If God calls you to ordained service in the church, He will provide the grace, direction, and support you need. Just listen and respond with all your heart, mind, and soul.

The Four Last Things

In the December 17-23, 2017 edition of Our Sunday Visitor (pages 9-12), we learn about the Four Last Things – death, heaven, hell and purgatory. So far, we have studied death, purgatory, and hell. Let us wrap it up with the happy reality of heaven.

On Heaven – The alternative to hell is heaven, and whereas hell is the state of eternal separation from God, heaven is the opposite: “This perfect life with the Most Holy Trinity – this communion of life and love with the Trinity, with the Virgin Mary, the angels and all the blessed – is called ‘heaven.’ Heaven is the ultimate end and fulfillment of the deepest longings, the state of supreme, definitive happiness” (Catechism of the Catholic Church, Paragraph 1024).

And just as a person gets to hell by how he or she lives on earth, so it is with heaven. The crucial difference is that the person who chooses heaven uses his or her freedom to make every effort at yielding to and accepting God’s grace. Another difference is that a person can get to hell by oneself, but getting to heaven involves the whole body of Christ, head and members, as St. Paul reminded the Corinthians: “encourage one another and build one another up” (1 Thessalonians 5:11).

The essence of heaven is the relationship that human beings enjoy with the Holy Trinity (which includes all the saints), a perfect communion that restores the order God intended when he first created everything. In fact, the Church teaches that, following the Last Judgment, not only humanity but also the entire universe will be transformed into its glorious state (Catechism of the Catholic Church, Paragraph 1060). For human beings this means a reunification with their bodies, now immortal through the grace of the resurrection (see Catechism of the Catholic Church, Paragraph 1052).

Still, to enjoy this communion, human beings must act on God’s grace now, here on earth. What this means, practically speaking, is honoring one’s relationships as God intended. The book of Genesis suggests “that human life is grounded in three fundamental and closely intertwined relationships: with God, with our neighbor and with the earth itself” (Laudato Si, Number 66). Sin disrupted these relationships, resulting in separation from God, alienation among neighbors and disharmony with the earth. God’s love in Jesus has made it possible to restore all three.

The choice is before each human person: to love as Christ loves, faithful to the Father, united in the Spirit, and working for the salvation of all. If a person joins this work now, he or she will experience its perfection in heaven.

The last four things properly understood in the context of Jesus’ life, death and resurrection need not be so ominous. For example, in what is most likely an apocryphal account, the story is told about St. Bonaventure eating a meal with his fellow friars. One of them asks Bonaventure what he would do if Jesus were to initiate the Last Judgment at that very moment. And Bonaventure answers, “I’d finish eating my soup.” Apocryphal or not, it captures well the peace, even in the face of death and judgment, of one who abides in Jesus.

And One Final Word on The Toll of Death – Even Christians who hope in the resurrection of Jesus can be deeply affected by death. One must face one’s own death and (usually) the deaths of family and friends. Indeed, persons may experience great anguish at the thought of dying, just as Jesus did in the Garden of Gethsemane (see Luke 22:39-46). A person also may “weep with those who weep” (Romans 12:15) at the death of a beloved friend, just as Jesus did with Lazarus’ family (John 11:35). Expressing these deep and real emotions is good and healthy, and it does not mean that one has no faith. Again, Christians may grieve, but not without hope (1 Thessalonians 4:13). They trust in Jesus’ words: “Amen, amen, I say to you, you will weep and mourn, while the world rejoices; you will grieve, but your grief will become joy” (John 16:19).

If one needs a model for how to approach one’s own death, then certainly Jesus is the one to follow. He experienced the normal human emotions as death came near, but he remained steadfast in his belief that the Father would raise him. For a model of how to approach someone else’s death, Mary of Magdala may be the best. St. John tells us that “Mary stayed outside Jesus’ tomb weeping. And as she wept, she bent over the tomb and peered inside” (20:11-12). Mary’s love for Jesus was expressed in her grief, but her faith prompted her to keep looking through the darkness of the grave in the hope that Jesus was not gone forever. The rest of the account reveals that she is rewarded for her fidelity by being the first to see the risen Lord, and she then shares the good news with the apostles. The Lord is risen! (John 20:11-18).

God’s blessings! Father Peter Schuster, Pastor

With Rochester Serrans please pray *"That we may never take the presence of our priests for granted, as we celebrate the Mass and are nourished by the Eucharist; for retired priests, that they may experience God's love as they walk a new path of prayer and servanthood; for all priests who struggle with loneliness, failing health, or loss of mobility, may they be comforted by the grace of the Holy Spirit; for priests who now sleep in the peace of the resurrection, may God bless them gently into their eternal reward: that our parish families will embrace their priests with love, constant prayer, and our trust in their leadership". The Saint Joseph Lay Carmelite Community Open House

The Saint Joseph Lay Carmelite Community is welcoming new members, with formation to begin in the Spring of 2019. The Lay Carmelite Order, historically known as the Third Order of Carmel, is an association mainly of lay persons. Lay Carmelites are called to the Family of Carmel to be deeply involved in the mission of the Church and to contribute to the transformation of the secular world. Membership in the Third Order is an intensified commitment to the living of our baptismal promises. We find in Mary, the Mother of Jesus, and in the Prophet Elijah the models for this way of Gospel living. Being a Lay Carmelite is not just a devotion added to life; it is a way of life, a vocation. By entering the Order, the Lay Carmelite takes upon the Carmelite charism of prayer, community, and service to others. Being a Lay Carmelite is not just a devotion added to life; it is a way of life, a vocation. By entering the Order, the Lay Carmelite takes upon the Carmelite charism of prayer, community, and service to others. Join us at our Open House on Saturday, November 3rd, 2018 at the Church of the Resurrection. Eucharistic Ministers are reminded that, if you have not been through a training session yet, you have not been added to the November roster. Please contact myself or Erica Stiller as soon as possible to set up a training time if you still wish to serve as a Eucharistic Minister. Additionally, you also will be unable to serve as a substitute Eucharistic Minister until you have completed training.

For those Eucharistic Ministers who have gone through training, you will receive an email reminding you of the changes beginning the weekend of November 3rd/4th. Additionally, the same information will also be made available in the sacristy for you.

Remembering the Holy Souls

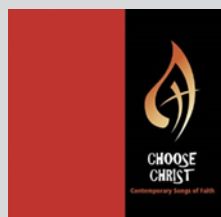

During the month of November, we will remember those parishioners who have passed away over the last year. Each Soul will be represented with a candle in the windows of the Church, along with a name card and photograph. There will be one final candle near the ambo next to the book of the dead, where the names of those deceased will be written. Please feel free to add to the book with your own deceased loved ones' names over the month.

At all of the Masses next weekend, we will remember those deceased from the parish during all Masses. All family members should have received or will receive a personal invitation to these Masses. However, if a friend or a neighbor is amongst the bereaved of this last year, consider extending an extra-special invitation to join you at Mass next weekend.

New Song Sunday

For this week's New Song Sunday, I'd like to share with you Bread of Life, by Bobby Fisher. This piece, which we'll use in the New Year as a Preparation Hymn, is a wonderful reflection on the gifts. Though simple in structure, it is even more powerful in message. You can also take a look ahead to this one in your Green Hymnals at #805.

Faith Formation

News from Sheila, Birth-KG, Children's Ministry, dresscm@rescathroch.org or 288-5528 x 101

In Sunday School today we hear how a blind man named Bartimaeus begs Jesus to cure his blindness. This story can remind us to not take the gifts of our five senses for granted. Although this story is talking about a physical blindness, we too can suffer from spiritual blindness which prevents us from truly doing the will of the Father. Let us pray that whatever blocks our spiritual sight is lifted so that we may fully participate in the body of Christ and assist in bringing others to the truth of the Christian faith. St. Albert the Great, pray for us. Amen.

News from Stacey, Grades 1-5, Family Ministry, dre1to5fm@rescathroch.org or 288-5528 x 108

Grades 1-5: Monday, October 29th, all children in grades 1-5 and their families will participate in All Saints Learning Centers. All are welcome to come and learn about what it means to be a saint and how we are all called to be holy. The learning centers take about an hour to complete and are available 4:00-7:00pm. Please bring a food item to donate to St. Vincent de Paul/Food For Friends ministries.

First Reconciliation: On Monday, November 12th, we will have our parent/child learning centers for all First Reconciliation families. Centers will be open 4:00-7:00pm in Fr. Zenk Hall and it will take about an hour to complete. Keep practicing your prayers!

Virtues in Practice: Our October virtue is studiousness. St. Thomas Aquinas, patron saint of Catholic schools and of students, became famous for writing brilliant books about God. Many of his books and writings are still used today to learn more about God. St. Thomas Aquinas, help me to persevere in my study of truth so that I will grow closer to God and one day meet you in heaven where we will praise God together forever. Amen. St. Thomas Aquinas, pray for us!

Saint of the Day apps!

Saints Simon and Jude—October 28. Legend has it that Simon and Jude traveled to Persia together where they were both martyred. This may explain why they share the same feast day. St. Simon is usually referred to as "the Zealot," and St. Jude, also known as Thaddeus, is often considered the brother of St. James the Lesser.
