Weekly Words from The Rock

Spiritual Work of Mercy

What does it mean to admonish the sinner? To admonish the sinner is one of the seven spiritual works of mercy, and like the other six, it is concerned with the spiritual well-being of another.

To admonish someone is to warn about a fault; to correct wrongdoing; to scold, usually mildly; or to remind someone to do the right thing. This good work is extremely difficult and delicate. Most people dislike conflict. Few people welcome correction. It is natural to be defensive. It is hard to speak up, to know when to speak and how to effectively deliver the message.

My mother was a master at this in our home when I was a boy. If I said a bad word or was mean to my sister, she would say to me more than I cared to hear, "Silence is consent," and then add, "I love you too much not to bring this to your attention." Her admonishment was an act of love that helped me to turn away from the sin.

To admonish the sinner runs contrary to the modern trend not to be judgmental. We are told repeatedly that we should be accepting of others. Jesus loved people, but he did not accept their sins. Jesus judged constantly between good and evil, right and wrong, the truth and lies. He could tell the difference and refused to turn a blind eye to sin. As his followers, Christians must be judgmental as Jesus was, honestly evaluate all that is happening, affirm what is good and wholesome, but oppose that which is wrong, misguided, harmful or destructive.

In the Gospel of Mark, Jesus' opening message was "Repent" (Mark 1:15). It is an admonishment to all sinners. When the disciples panicked during the storm at sea, Jesus asked with a reproving tone, "Do you not yet have faith?" (Mark 4:40). When the disciples failed to pay attention or think intelligently, he chided them, "Are even you likewise without understanding?" (Mark 7:18). When the disciples tried to keep the children away from Jesus, he corrected them, "Let the children come to me" (Mark 10:14). When James and John asked for positions of importance, he reminded them about servant leadership (Mark 10:35-45).

Occasionally Jesus intensified his admonishment, such as when Peter wrongfully advised him not to go to Jerusalem. It is a sin to go against God's will, and Jesus sternly rebuked him, "Get behind me, Satan" (Mark 8:33).

His admonishment was harshest and most direct with the religious leaders. He reprimanded them, "You hypocrites" (Mark 7:6), and he confronted them with their sin, "You disregard God's commandment" (Mark 7:8).

While it is a spiritual good to admonish a sinner, it does not give license to unload on someone. I was a high school basketball coach before I became a priest. In one game, the point guard for our team played miserably in the first half: out of control, selfish, multiple turnovers, forced shots, defiant. I stormed into the locker room at halftime and raked him over the coals with a blistering rant. In the second half he played as badly as the first. As I sat on the bench watching, I thought, humiliated, "Michael, your tirade was all about you and venting your anger, and had nothing to do with helping this young man." It became eminently clear to me what wiser Christians have known all along: Correction must be constructive, given in charity, be under control, be the product of prayer, and be for the sinner's benefit.

Pop Quiz

On February 20, 1997, The Catholic Spirit came up with a religious competency test. This test encompasses all articles of the Catholic faith. Here are the questions I posed for you last week and I now provide the answers.

Question 1: The people who administer this sacrament is the couple?

Answer: Marriage

Question 2: The ordinary of this sacrament is the bishop?

Answer: Confirmation/Holy Orders

Here are the questions for the coming week.

Question 1: Name the seven sacraments (any order).

Question 2: Name the two principal parts of the Mass.

Good luck with these questions. I'll provide the answers next week along with the next series of questions.

We are in need of volunteers to make drinks, engage customers and show them Christ's light. Hours are flexible and variable to your schedule. We cover a total of 79 hours a week with volunteers so if you could help with a few of those hours a month, we would be ever so grateful. Food for Friends Update: Quilts/blankets – these will be distributed on February 14, Valentines Day and it is also I Love to Read month. We will have enough for each child to receive a blanket of love and warmth. A message will be pinned to each blanket letting the children know that they were made from Church of the Resurrection parishioners. All of the blankets will be displayed for the February 14th, 8:30 am Mass, to be blessed for those receiving them. We will continue to accept blankets for this ministry for future needs. 1 ½ yards of the tie fleece blankets make great service projects. Still want to use up your stash of fabric – make a quilt!

Valentine's Cards are needed. As the classrooms have Valentine celebrations, there is a need for our friends to have Valentines to celebrate with their friends. We are looking for 25-30 boxes, boys and girls. Please consider. You may leave them in the Food for Friends tub at the church.

This Friday, February 1st, marks the Feast of St. Brigid, patroness of Ireland. Traditionally, this also marks the first day of spring. (Definitely NOT in Minnesota!) A lot of you ask about the cross I wear on my necklace, and also the one that hangs on my door. This, in fact, is St. Brigid's Cross. Legend has it, St. Brigid wove this cross from rushes off the floor of the home of a dying pagan chieftain. She spoke to him of Jesus and converted him to Christianity in his final moments on earth. To this day, Irish schoolchildren weave St. Brigid's Crosses in school using pipe cleaners. I myself used to weave roughly a hundred St. Brigid's Crosses every year from the traditional green rushes, which turn brown after they've dried out.

The program I was first involved in on the Emerald Isle was called Teach Bhríde (pronounced "Chalk Breed") after this fascinating saint. Although she is not an "official" saint through Rome, the Irish would argue she is more official, as they have been praying for her intercession since her death in the 6th century. (Rome began canonizing in the 10th.) She is the female counterpart to St. Patrick.

Since she is so loved, St. Brigid happens to be the patron saint for many different things, including babies, blacksmiths, boatmen, cattle, chicken farmers, children whose parents are not married, dairymaids, dairy workers, fugitives, infants, mariners, midwives, musicians, poets, poultry raisers, printing presses, sailors, and scholars. I'd say she keeps pretty busy!

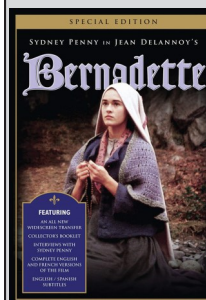

Next week, I will tell you of a couple more legends surrounding St. Brigid. In the meantime, let us pray to St. Brigid for her intercession. (And perhaps an early start to spring!)

Sometimes when we hurt ourselves, we realize just how often we use that particular part of our body. St. Paul reminds us that one body is made up of many different parts and all of these are important in their own way. Let us pray, Lord Jesus you call each one of us to belong to one people, the family of God. Help us, together with our brothers and sisters in Christ, to share your love with the world. St. Cecilia pray for us. Amen.

Virtues in Practice: Our January virtue is fidelity and the 3-5 grades will look at a married couple, Blessed Luigi and Maria Beltrame Quattrocchi. Throughout their lives, Maria and Luigi served the Church by faithfully living the vows of their marriage and through their many charitable works. The family was consecrated to the Sacred Heart of Jesus and prayed the Rosary together each evening. Because of the holiness of their lives and their particular witness to the virtue of fidelity in their marriage, in 2001 Luigi and Maria became the first married couple to be beatified together. Their wedding anniversary date, November 25th, is now celebrated as their feast day. Blessed Luigi and Maria, pray for us! Amen.

Sheila's Shout-Out

Kris Dobbelaere, Sunday School and Nursery Volunteer is pictured here with Sunday School student Oscar Schilling.

Kris is a Candidate and will be confirmed into the Catholic Faith on Sunday, February 17th during the 8:30am Mass. Kris feels that "helping in the nursery gives parents the gift of Mass." When asked "Why do you want to be Catholic?" Kris simply responded "Because I know I am home."

Kris Dobbelaere, Jameon Petersen, and Tara Maday will be confirmed on Sunday, February 17th during the 8:30am Mass. Please stop by the display in the Gathering Space to pick up their Saint's Holy Card and offer up prayers for them in their journey.

Stacey Shares: I start most of my mornings by opening, praying and reflecting on a Blessed is She daily e-mail. I have been reading this for over six months and consider the readings to be worthy of promoting to others. Blessed is She is a community full of women just like you that seek support in their relationship with the Lord and want to connect together with Scripture. The Mission Statement is: "Blessed is She is a Catholic women's community committed to deepening a life of prayer starting with daily Scripture devotionals and supportive sisterhood. We begin with the Word of God and grow as sisters as we share our hearts. We believe in beauty pointing toward the Divine, and we strive to live a Eucharistic life." As their website proclaims: "We are women, just like you. We are single, married, mamas, and grandmamas, too. We help foster community, through daily devotions straight to your inbox. We walk with you on this crazy journey as a daughter of the King." If you want to strengthen your spirituality, and have tools to live passionately every single day, go to their website, blessedisshenet.net. to subscribe and to receive your daily devotions.
