Pop Quiz

On February 20, 1997, The Catholic Spirit came up with a religious competency test. This test encompasses all articles of the Catholic faith. Here are the questions I posed for you last week and I now provide the answers.

Lenten Pastoral Answers

Question: Why did Judas betray Jesus?

Answer: When we consider this, we must first recall that we are dealing with what St. Paul referred to as “the mystery of lawlessness” (2 Thes 2:7). This mystery is bigger than why Judas sinned. Why did Lucifer and the other angels, who did not have the weakness of concupiscence, rebel? Why did Adam and Eve, who were sinless and knew God and walked with him in the garden, rebel? It is a deep, and shocking mystery. For that matter, why do we sin? It is true we have the weakness of a fallen nature, but we know better and experience the harm that our sins cause us and others, and we still do it. This is the mystery of iniquity, a sort of “dark side” to the radical freedom that human and angelic persons were given.

That said, Scripture speaks of Judas’ betrayal as rooted in his yielding to Satan: “Then Satan entered into Judas, the one surnamed Iscariot, who was counted among the Twelve, and he went to the chief priests and temple guards to discuss a plan for handing him over to them” (Luke 22:3-4).

There were storm clouds gathering for Judas by which he may have opened the door to Satan. Scripture reveals that he was a thief, stealing from the common money bag (John 12:6). Jesus also hints that Judas was grieved by the Bread of Life discourse when many left Jesus after he insisted that they must eat his flesh and drink his blood. Jesus said, “Did I not choose you 12? Yet is not one of you a devil?” He was referring to Judas, son of Simon the Iscariot” (John 6:70-71).

Psychologically, we can only guess as to Judas’ motivation. The most likely explanation is that he was disillusioned when Jesus did not measure up to the common Jewish notion of the Messiah as a warrior and revolutionary. Judas may have been a member of the Zealot Party or influenced by them in this regard. Zealots are seldom interested in hearing of their need for healing and repentance, let alone the call to love their enemies. But this is only speculative in regard to Judas. His motivations remain shrouded in the mystery of iniquity.

Question 1: Fill in the form/words for the Sacrament of Confirmation _____.

Answer: Be Sealed with the Gift of the Holy Spirit

Question 2: Fill in the form/words for the Sacrament of Baptism _____.

Answer: I baptize you in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit.

Here are the questions for the coming week.

Question 1: What should be each and everyone’s ultimate goal throughout their life?

Question 2: What do we call the day Christ died?

Question 3: What do we call the day when Christ celebrated the Last Supper with his disciples?

Question 4: What do we call the day when Christ rose from the dead?

Good luck with the questions. I’ll provide the answers next week along with the next series of questions.

Musings from Joy

Music and Choral Director &
Coordinator of Liturgy
choirdirector@rescathroch.org.

This week we will explore Part II of our NPM article, “Come and See...and Hear...and Sing.” Remember from last week, it considered the diversity of our younger Catholics:

“So the first thing we have to do as faithful people is issue that invitation [to ‘Come and See’]. We have to be sure enough in our faith that we’re willing to offer ourselves as examples. We need to be confident enough to let someone get close enough to ask questions, to offer challenges, and to become like us, drawing on our example, our teaching, and our strength. What is it that we’re inviting young people in particular to come and see? And what are they inviting us to see and hear and be part of? Two things, actually: the God revealed in Jesus Christ and our response to that revelation. The God of Jesus loves us infinitely, unquestioningly, unfathomably, and unconditionally – so much as to become one of us and to be present to us now and forever. Our response to that revelation must also be love, as we learn to live in and through the God who dwells within us, among us, and infinitely beyond us. And we need to show that response primarily in simple, daily ways, in the enduring ways that we live in communion with God, through Christ, in the power of the Spirit: in the ways we care for ourselves, for each other, and for strangers, especially the poor, forgotten, and suffering. One of the key ways we issue the invitation to ‘come and see’ is through the liturgy. It is here, we believe, that we are most fully in communion with the living God. If we believe that, then the way we worship should reflect that belief. This doesn’t mean that liturgy should be a ‘clappy happy’ event, but it does mean that it should involve us completely (or at least as completely as we can give ourselves at any moment) – participating fully, consciously, and actively, body and mind, burning with faith, hope, and charity. Our liturgical celebrations should invite people to ask: ‘Who lives here?’ And we should be ready to answer: ‘Come and see. Come and hear. Come and join our song.’”<sup>1</sup>

Although this article is focusing on our young people, all of this can be applied to Catholics of any age. When is the last time you issued the invitation? When were you last invited? How do you “participate” in the Mass fully, consciously, and actively? What do you “come and see”?

Virtues in Practice: Our April virtue is obedience, which means to live a life of saying "yes" to the loving will of God and those who stand in His place (parents, teachers, coaches). Obedience comes from a Latin word which means "to listen." Listening in a loving way with an open heart requires a response to the speaker. God's authority over us is one of love. All that God does is for our good and for our salvation. If someone we love asks us to do something, obedience is easy and pleasant. By responding to our parents, teacher, and God with a cheerful and quick "yes" to what they ask, we grow in the virtue of obedience. April's saints are St. Juan Diego and Mary, Mother of God, who both said "yes" to God! Pray for us! Amen

Baptism

Born to a new life in Christ and joined to our faith community through the Waters of Baptism, we welcome:

Jaxon Kenneth Steier

Baptized on March 17th, 2019

Child of Jordan and Kelsey, sister Raeley

Camden Joseph Chalstrom

Baptized on March 24th, 2019

Child of Garrett and Emily

Stacey Shares: Our WORDS make great prayers. But WORDS don't always seem to be there when we need them most. On some days, "Thank you," "Help," "I'm sorry," and "Please" are the only prayer words we can find. Praying WITHOUT WORDS is another option. But what do you DO, if you're not using words? How do you pray for yourself or other people without words? How do you get quiet and listen to what God might say? Or, as the writer of 1 Kings 19:12 in the Bible might ask, "How do you hear the 'still small voice' or the 'gentle whisper' of God? We call that PRAYING IN COLOR!

All families with children in grades 1-5 are encouraged to join us on Monday, April 1st for Praying in Color Learning Centers. The centers take about an hour to complete and are open 4:00-7:00pm in Fr. Zenk Hall.
