The Wisdom of Fulton Sheen:

I have been reading a book entitled The Wisdom of Fulton Sheen. The book shares a thread of Bishop Sheen's wisdom for each day of the year. In the weeks ahead, I would like to share some of his wisdom.

January 15 – "Why are those who are notoriously undisciplined and unmoral also most contemptuous of religion and morality? They are trying to solace their own unhappy lives by pulling the happy down to their own abysmal depths."

January 18 – "If you do not worship God, you will worship something, and nine times out of ten it will be yourself. You have a duty to worship God, not because He will be imperfect and unhappy if you do not, but because you will be imperfect and unhappy."

January 26 – "Love begins at home, and it is not how much we do...but how much love we put in that action."

Till next week! Father Peter Schuster

Thanks to everyone who helped make our Ministry Fair a beautiful community event filled with joy and discipleship. It really was an incredible weekend with all of you!

So many people told me this week that our youth are the future of the Church, and while they're absolutely right, I think there's a more accurate statement to make. You are the Church, its past, present, and future.

The only reason my siblings and I got into ministry was because of the example our parents led. They used the blessings they were given to be blessings for others, and it was through their desire to be closer to Christ that we desired it, too. If not through their example, I highly doubt that we would be as active as we are in our faith today.

How can I, or any of us for that matter, expect our youth to be the future of the Church if we ourselves are reluctant to accept Christ's calling? Believe me, I know that serving Christ is a commitment. It requires sacrificing our personal desires and surrendering ourselves to his teaching. But maybe there's a lesson to be learned there. Do we choose Christ, or do we choose ourselves? Do we choose to find joy in God's infinite grace, or do we misplace it by focusing on our lives here on earth over him?

The fair may be over, but the call to be disciples of Christ will always remain. What is it that we hear at the end of every single Mass? "Go, glorify the Lord by your life." It's a call to each and every one of us. So let's recommit ourselves to him once again and respond, "Thanks be to God."

God Bless,
Michelle Perrier

Ways to Celebrate the Angels: This week we celebrate the Archangels (St. Michael, St. Gabriel, and St. Raphael) on September 29th and our Holy Guardian Angels on October 2nd.

Here's some ways to honor the angels:

- Teach your kids about angels from the Bible and the Catechism of the Catholic Church (#325-354). We know angels are purely spiritual creatures, created by God. They are messengers of God. When people die, they do not become angels. Instead, we may be one of the known or unknown saints.
- Teach your kids about Satan (a fallen angel) who has rejected God.
- Read about the fall of the angels in the catechism (CCC #391-395).
- Read about angels in the Bible- there are more than 300 references (Acts 12:5-10 an angel rescues Peter from prison; Isaiah 6:1-7 vision of the seraphim; Daniel 6:10-23 Daniel and the lions; Genesis 21:14-19 Hagar and Ishmael are rescued in the desert; Luke 1:26-38 Gabriel is sent to Mary; and Luke 2:9-15 angels appear to the shepherds).
- Pray to the angels with the Prayer to St. Michael and the Angel of God prayer.
- Make an angel craft (angel puppets out of socks or paper bags, or handprint angels using paper and finger paints) or bake sugar cookies in the shape of an angel.
- Plan an angel party complete with angel hair pasta and angel food cake.
- Be like an angel— be messengers of God's love by making small angel cards with messages of hope, faith, and love inside. Leave the cards to surprise others or mail them to family or friends.
