Is Our Death Fatalistically Determined?

Question: There was a discussion among my Protestant family recently following the death of a close family member, and someone who was trying to be consoling said, "Well, it was just her time." I fully believe that isn't true. Her death (from Covid-19) was certainly preventable. The person justified what she said by citing Scripture: "Since his days are determined – you know the number of months; you have fixed the limit which he cannot pass" (Job 14:5). How does the Church interpret that verse, and how do I best convey what the Church teaches about this, given that we have free will and our time on earth is affected by the choices that we and others around us make?

Answer: Questions like these center on matters such as time, human freedom and God's sovereignty. Of particular importance is to understand that God does not live in time the way we do. God is in the fullness of time we call eternity. Eternity is not just a long, long time; it is the fullness of time. This means that the day of my birth, the day of my ordination to the priesthood and the day of my death are all equally present to God.

We can get a picture of eternity by imagining a clock face. On the circular face there are numbers at the edge and there is a center dot in the middle of the circle. Let's say it is 10:00 a.m. This means that, out at the edge, 4:00 p.m. is in the future and 8:00 a.m. is in the past. But at the center dot, 10 a.m., 4 p.m. and 8 a.m. are all equally present. By analogy, that is where God is. The whole sweep of time is before him at once. God is not waiting for things to happen or wondering what we will do at some point in time. God has always known what we will do, experience, think or ask. In this sense, we can speak of God knowing how long we will live and that we have a set number of days.

That God knows what we will do does not destroy our freedom. God has simply known all along what we would freely do or ask. To illustrate this, imagine that you are sitting upon a hill and see two trains in the valley on the same track heading for one another around a curve. You seeing and knowing what is about to happen doesn't make the trains collide. Rather, it is the errors and free acts of human beings that have brought this about. So it is with God. His knowing what we will do does not force us to act fatalistically in some way. It is simply that he has always known; each moment has always been present to him.

Someone may ask: If God already knows everything that will happen, why bother praying at all? Simply put, God has also and always known whether or not you would pray and has factored that into what he will do. God answers prayers faster than right now and sooner than immediately. St. Augustine said, "Act as if everything depends on you but pray and know that everything depends on God."

As for Covid-19 or any similar issue, say death or heart disease, we can reason in a similar way. Consider that heart disease is usually the result of choices related to food and exercise. In our free acts, we can influence our lifespan and heart health. Choose well and, other things being equal, you will live longer. So, in this sense, our days are not simply or fatalistically determined, such that we have no free input into health and length of days. However, God has always known what all those choices would be and where they would lead. In this sense, we can speak of the number of our days as being determined and say things such as, "It was just her time." Psalm 139 says, "in your book all are written down; my days were shaped, before one came to be" (verse 16).

So, God is sovereign. He is not surprised at what we do or wonder what we will ask. But we are also free and responsible for what we do. We must hold both truths in the tension and balance that they require. We must also realize these matters are caught up in the mystery of time and that God lives in eternity.

"Lord Jesus Christ, pierce my soul with your love so that I may always long for you alone, who are the bread of angels and the fulfilment of the soul's deepest desires. May my heart always hunger for you, so that my soul may be filled with the sweetness of your presence." St Bonaventure

I, like many of you, received the Sacrament of First Holy Communion when I turned seven. You might have even anxiously practiced before-hand, like me, with little Dixie cups before bedtime. Eventually, the day came when I set the cup down, donned on the white dress, witnessed Christ's sacrifice with my parish community, heard the words, "The Body and Blood of Christ," and responded, "Amen." I was elated that day, though not nearly as much as I should have been, for there was so much I did not fully understand.

"Our sharing in the Body and Blood of Christ has no other purpose than to transform us into that which we receive." Pope St Leo the Great.

We as Catholics talk about the Eucharist a lot, but how often do we actually think about what this gift truly is or means for us? The more I talk to those who no longer come to Sunday Mass, the more I realize that it's largely due to the fact that many start to forget the true meaning of the Eucharist. You've probably heard of a pew study done a few years ago, when it was discovered that nearly seven of ten Catholics believe the bread and wine to be merely symbols rather than the true presence of the Body and Blood of Christ.

"We must not separate our life from the Eucharist. The moment we do so, something shatters." St Teresa of Calcutta.

As this year begins a 3-year Eucharistic Revival in the United States, I want to encourage all of you to join us in a study of the Eucharist. At home during the week, we'll individually watch a video by Bishop Cozzens, the auxiliary bishop of the Archdiocese of St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Faith Formation

News from Stacey, Grades 1-5, Family Ministry, dre1to5fm@rescathroch.org.

Grades 1-5: We do not have Faith Formation on Monday, February 21st for grades 1-5 due to Presidents Day. We invite all families and children to join us at 10:00-10:45am in the Church, where Steve Angrisano will have a program for the elementary age children. Families are encouraged to come and stay for the activities and games 10:45-noon in Fr. Zenk Hall. Bring a bag lunch and eat with Steve at noon.

Totus Tuus 2022: Save the date for Totus Tuus this summer. The Team will be at Resurrection Monday, June 27-Friday, July 1st.

Teaching Kids to Care by Practicing Virtues: We will spend the spring and summer months talking about virtues with the assistance of a catechist book by Sr. Janet Schaeffler, OP. Compassion and mercy are the two virtues for this week. Compassion is the quality of being aware of and understanding the suffering of others and wanting to do something about it. Mercy is the compassionate kindness and steadfast love shown to others, especially toward people who are suffering or in distressing situations. At our Works of Mercy learning centers, children and parents learned many tangible ways to serve others, like a simple message on a card to someone who is homebound. Above all, we are to make service experiences joyous while bringing the love of God to others. We learned simple ways to practice corporal and spiritual works. Together, we are called to practice compassion and mercy as Catholics.

Prayer: God of compassion and mercy, open our eyes. Let us see those who are in need of compassion. Compel us to listen and to hear their needs. Give us hearts to be interested and hands to compassionately care. Amen.

News from Sheila, Birth-KG, Grs 6-12, RCIA, dresscm@rescathroch.org

Last Wednesday, February 9th, a St. Valentine's "Window Drawings" Service project came together at the Cascade Creek memory care facility. Tiffany Bell, life engagement director for Cascade Creek and Church of the Resurrection parishoner/Middle School catechist shared the following message about the service: "Little touches like this really mean a lot to our residents, and they really enjoyed watching the students create their masterpieces." Claudia Pelowski shared that "the older people would come and watch us, and they would clap...knowing that they really appreciate our drawings just makes me feel nice." Thank you Tiffany Bell, Ann Robertson, and Todd Smith for encouraging our youth to have hearts of service. We look forward to more opportunities! For now, enjoy the pictures!
